Introduction

Words can inspire and produce hope, fear, laughter, and sometimes tears. We can become obsessed with finding that quote, that one proverb of inspiration that will stick with us for the rest of our lives. I am no different. For years, through my business of bringing Self Improvement wisdom to our readers, I have searched myself, for words that are meaningful, inspiring, and I have come across hundreds. Our main website, <http://www.SelfGrowth.com> contains hundreds of resources on Inspiration and Motivation.

I shared these quotes in a book I wrote a couple of years ago called, “The Top 501 Inspirational Quotes of All Time.” I scoured many websites, and consulted my friends, my family and our readers for these pearls of wisdom. Now I want to do that again, except this time, I bring to you, “The Top 501 Inspiring Love and Relationship Quotes.”

Why change my focus? Aren't there enough inspirational and love quotes out on the web? All you have to do is type love and quotes into any search engine and thousands of websites will surface. It can be overwhelming, to be bombarded by hundreds of quotes. Then you ask yourself, where do I start?

I can tell you where I began. I started with a simple survey, sent out to the over 120,000 subscribers of our Loving Today Newsletter. I asked them simply, “What is your favorite love quote?” The response was astounding. Emails began to pour in at an exuberant pace, filled with quotes from movies, books, poetry, etc.

What was to be the next step though? This would be to prioritize them. This was going to be a challenge. How does one do this? After some consideration, I thought I should use the internet; the resource that my business was based on. It also allowed me to start this project. I had gone there to ask people for their opinions and now I would go back to help me organize the quotes.

I began the task of taking every quote and putting it into a search engine to see how many websites it appeared on. This told me how popular it was. By taking that same number I began to rank the quotes. The # 1 quote would be the quote listed on the most websites. Our # 1 most popular quote was, “All you need is love.” We found this quote on over 2 Million Websites.

No matter what religion, race, or creed we are, what is the one thing that unites us all? As clichéd as this may sound, it is love. Whether love of our families, friends, or neighbors, we love. We dedicate a whole holiday to this emotion. We each love something.

In my life, my greatest loves are my family, my wife and children, my parents, my siblings, the list extends. They are my inspiration for getting up every morning, no matter how I am feeling, they move me to live my life. They are my driving force. They are the reason why I am writing this book.

This brings me to my last question, why quotes?

For years I have loved quotes, in particular love quotes. I would memorize them and repeat them to myself over and over again. Just like many other people I found them to be a great source of inspiration.

I use them in conversations.

I use them for laughs.

I use them to invoke happiness.

I use them in my writing.

I just use them.

Thinking back, I have always used quotes. They are a form of language and expression that has been around for thousands of years, from Confucius’ insightful proverbs to the witty repartee of modern day movies and television. They can apply to almost every situation and help us to maintain connectivity with each other.

While these are all great reasons, the most important is that I have always felt quotes allow us to express what we are feeling. Because of that, I feel inspired to share what I consider one of the most, if not the most, important emotion we can have, love. I am lucky to have family and friends who I love, and to them I dedicate this book.

These love quotes, are inspiring and timeless. This book is filled with words that have spanned generations and can still be used today. Love is something that is all around and even the biggest cynic can't deny that love has a quality that we are all attracted to.

Who am I to tell you to read this? I am just like everyone else. I am an ordinary person who is lucky enough to have family and friends who I love. As a result I felt inspired and motivated to share not only my favorite love quotes, but yours as well. These quotes were collected from people just like you. They inspired, helped them, or just entertained them. The idea motivated them enough to reply to my question.

Quotes are an amazing tool of communication. They have defined generations as well as linked them. They will be with us forever. Love will be with us forever. And bringing these two areas together only demonstrates the power of them.

So I ask you, if you want read this book, use it for your own purposes, but keep in mind that you don't have to be a poet to enjoy them. You are just like everyone else; you are a person who is searching for that driving force, our reason for being, to love.

I ask you to keep this in mind, "One word frees us of all the weight and pain of life: that word is love." – Sophocles.

- 478) Love is a ocean of emotions entirely surrounded by expenses. - Lord Dewart
- 479) Only in Relationship can you know yourself, not in abstraction and certainly not in isolation. The movement of behavior is the sure guide to yourself. It's the mirror of your consciousness; this mirror will reveal its content, the images, the attachments, the fears, the loneliness, the joy and sorrow. Poverty lies in running away from this, either in its sublimations or its identities. - J. Krishnamurti

480) Love is when reality is better than your dreams. - Becky Graham

481) There is not a breathing of the common wind that will forget thee. - William Wordsworth

482) Love is a little haven of refuge from the world. - Bertrand Russell

483) Come back to me in dreams; that I may give pulse for pulse, breath for breath: Speak low, lean low, as long ago, my love, how long ago. - Christina Rossetti

484) In the eyes of a lover pockmarks are dimples. - Japanese Proverb

485) Love does not conquer all things, but it does set all things right. - Unknown

486) That which is false troubles the heart, but truth brings joyous tranquility. - Rumi

487) Love isn't decent. Love is glorious and shameless. - Elizabeth Von Arnim

488) One who walks the road with love will never walk the road alone. - C. T. Davis

489) It is well for the heart to be naive and for the mind not to be. - Anatole France

490) Mightier far Than strength of nerve or sinew, or the sway Of magic potent over sun and star, Is Love. - William Wordsworth

491) Love is...the universal thirst for a communion not merely of the senses, but of our whole nature - Percy Bysshe Shelley

492) I am someone else when I'm with you, someone more like myself. - From the Movie, Original Sin

- 493) I become a waterwheel, turning and tasting you, as long as water moves. - Rumi
- 494) Love is a butterfly, which when pursued is just beyond your grasp, but if you will sit down quietly it may alight upon you. - Nathaniel Hawthorne
- 495) From now on you will never be alone; even when we are separated, and even when death itself parts us, I shall remain with you. - Ladislaus Boros
